Lucy thought she had never been in a nicer place.

“And if she is extra and specially angry, she'll turn me into stone and I shall be only a statue of a Faun in her horrible house!”

“I suppose you can find your own way from there back to Spare Oom and War Drobe?”

He now remembered that he had been looking for Lucy.

The sledge was a fine sight as it came sweeping towards Edmund with the bells jingling and the dwarf cracking his whip and the snow flying up on each side.

“And what, pray, are you?” said the lady, looking hard at Edmund.

Lucy felt a little frightened, but she felt very inquisitive and excited as well.

And soon after that a very strange person stepped out from among the trees into the light of the lamp-post.

And when he saw Lucy, he gave such a start of surprise that he dropped all his parcels. “Goodness gracious me!” exclaimed the Faun.
